

Instructions For A Name Change - Adult

Important! Read Before Using These Forms and Instructions!

ND Legal Self Help Center staff and court employees can't help you fill out forms. If you're unsure if these forms and instructions suit your circumstances, consult a lawyer.

ND Legal Self Help Center forms aren't official court forms. Judges and courts aren't required to accept Center forms. There's no guarantee Center forms will be accepted.

If you need legal advice or legal representation, consult a lawyer licensed to practice in North Dakota. Go to ndcourts.gov/legal-self-help/finding-a-lawyer for information about finding a lawyer to represent you.

When you represent yourself, you're expected to know and follow the law, including:

- State or federal laws that apply to your case;
- Case law, also called court opinions, that applies to your case; and
- Court rules that apply to your case, which may include:
 - North Dakota Rules of Civil Procedure;
 - North Dakota Rules of Court;
 - North Dakota Rules of Evidence;
 - North Dakota Administrative Rules and Orders; and
 - Any local court rules.

Links to the state laws, case law, and court rules can be found at ndcourts.gov.

A glossary with definitions of legal terms is available at ndcourts.gov/legal-self-help.

When you represent yourself, you're held to the same requirements and responsibilities as a lawyer, even if you don't understand the rules or procedures

These instructions and forms aren't a complete statement of the law. They cover the basic procedure for petitioning a North Dakota state district court for the name change of an adult. If the forms don't fit your circumstances, consult a lawyer. There's no guarantee that all judges and courts will accept forms available through the ND Legal Self Help Center. The Center isn't responsible for any consequences that may result from the forms or information provided.

Use these forms and instructions at your own risk.

Requirements for name changes are found in North Dakota Century Code Chapter 32-28.

Review the Chapter carefully.

Note: You (Petitioner) must be a resident of the North Dakota county where you're filing the petition for at least six months before filing the petition.

Also Note: You (Petitioner) must be either a citizen or a permanent resident alien of the United States.

You May Ask the Judge Assigned to Your Case to Waive The Publication Requirement

North Dakota law requires that you publish notice of your name change in the newspaper before the judge assigned to your case can consider granting your name change. A Declaration of Publication or Affidavit of Publication is required, which is provided by the newspaper.

However, before you publish notice of your name change, you may ask the judge to waive the publication requirement if:

1. You're only asking for a change to your first or middle name; or
2. You're a victim of domestic violence as defined by North Dakota Century Code Section 14-07.1-01, which states:
"Domestic violence includes physical harm, bodily injury, sexual activity compelled by physical force, assault, or the infliction of fear of imminent physical harm, bodily injury, sexual activity compelled by physical force, or assault, not committed in self-defense, on the complaining family or household members."

Important: North Dakota law only allows a judge to consider the two reasons listed above for waiving the publication requirement.

If the judge doesn't grant your request to waive publication in the newspaper, you need to publish notice in the newspaper and file the Declaration of Publication or Affidavit of Publication with the court. The Declaration of Publication or Affidavit of Publication is provided by the newspaper after publication of the notice is complete.

This packet of forms and instructions includes the option of asking the judge to waive publication.

Criminal History Record Checks

Review the requirements for getting a criminal history record check Before you start the name change petition process. The process can take weeks.

The judge assigned to your name change case is required to determine whether you have a criminal record Before they can grant your name change.

The judge may require you to get a criminal history background check for North Dakota or any other state. You're required to pay all costs associated with the criminal history record check.

Some judges require all adults petitioning for names changes to get a criminal history background check. Other judges decide after reviewing the name change petition and other supporting documents.

Before you start the name change process, contact the Clerk of Court and ask if you're required to get a criminal history record check. If the Clerk of Court doesn't know, the judge decides after you file your petition and other supporting documents for your name change.

If the judge requires you to complete a criminal history background check, you may be directed to the following website to get your criminal history background check:

fbi.gov/services/cjis/identity-history-summary-checks.
